

From: Brian T. Anderson
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 11/21/01 10:03am
Subject: Microsoft proposed settlement

To whom it may concern,

The recent proposal by Microsoft to give one billion in software and services to underprivileged schools is anything but punishment. While I would not argue that this is something that is badly needed, it will only help Microsoft to maintain their monopoly. Strict regulation of Microsoft is the only way to maintain healthy competition in the software industry.

--

Brian Anderson
Strike Anywhere Design
www.LogicAndProportion.com